Proposed Change to Town of Brookeville's Building Permit

The Brookeville Planning Commission (BPC) has requested that the Town's Building Permit (TBBP) application be revised to include an expiration date. Currently, once approved, a building permit does not expire. The Town Commissioners will consider this revision at the September 9, 2019 Commissioners Meeting.

The proposed change to the Building Permit will be as follows:

Once a Town permit is approved, the building permit will expire if the work it covers is not completed within 2 (two) year of the date it is issued

TBBP can be found on the Town's website:

Status of Montgomery County's Pesticide Law

From Montgomery County DEP

On May 2, 2019, the Court of Special Appeals of Maryland ruled in favor of the County and upheld the law restricting the use of pesticides on private lawns and childcare facility grounds. The Department is advising all property owners and lawn care businesses, as well as retailers of pesticides for use on lawns, to immediately transition to organic lawn care.

The new provisions of the law are explained here:
